Honolulu, Hawaii
_____, 1987

RE: H.R. No. 345
H.D. 1

Honorable Daniel J. Kihano
Speaker, House of Representatives
Fourteenth State Legislature
Regular Session of 1987
State of Hawaii

Sir:

Your Committee on Ocean and Marine Resources to which was referred H.R. No. 345 entitled: "HOUSE RESOLUTION REQUESTING A STUDY OF EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS IN MARITIME-RELATED FIELDS", begs leave to report as follows:

The purpose of this resolution is to request a study by the department of accounting and general services on ensuring the availability and quality of maritime education in Hawaii, specifically referring to the Pacific Maritime Academy, Hawaii's only professional maritime training organization.

The importance of quality professional maritime training for adults and pre-employment training for high school students was recognized by the department of education and the University of Hawaii in supportive testimony.

Your Committee finds the Pacific Maritime Academy to be a vital part of Hawaii's employment training services, potentially making Hawaii a center of pacific maritime education. Your Committee has amended this resolution to reflect the possibility of Hawaii becoming such a center.

The Pacific Maritime Academy offers training licensing, certification of merchant marine officers, motorboat, and other vessel operators, celestial navigation, marine diesel engineering, and radar endorsement. The only major constraint on the Academy is a lack of adequate facilities on or near the water.

The study requested by this concurrent resolution shall look at the sites available for construction of facilities to accommodate the Academy.

Your Committee has amended this resolution to include other suitable sites in addition to Snug Harbor, and to include, for consultation in the study, the Department of Transportation and the Pacific Maritime Academy.

Your Committee has also corrected a reference to the United States Coast Guard as approving the Academy, since the Department of Education approves it.

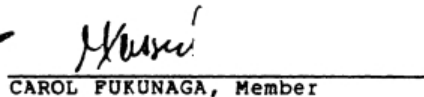

Your Committee on Ocean and Marine Resources concurs with the intent and purpose of H.R. No. 345, as amended herein, and recommends its adoption in the form attached hereto as H.R. No. 345, H.D. 1.

On motion by Representative Apo, seconded by Representative Jones and carried, H.R. No. 403 was adopted.

Representative Apo then rose and stated:

"Mr. Speaker, before I present Mr. Pailug and Mr. Thompson to this Honorable Body, I'd like to take a few brief moments to place their achievements in historical perspective.

"Mr. Speaker, every ethnic culture when subjected to the test of time, seeks to distinguish itself from the rest of mankind by pointing to some significant achievement in its history that would make other men sit up and take notice. For the Polynesian, the single most distinguishing characteristic, the one thing that separates him from the rest of mankind in terms of achievement is his seafaring.

"Mr. Speaker, I submit to you that while another great seafaring people, the Nordic Vikings was still hugging the coast of Europe, afraid to venture beyond site of landfall -- a period in history when western man was only beginning to develop his sea legs fearing that he would fall off the ends of the earth -- years before Columbus set out to disprove that the world was flat or round -- the Polynesian navigator had traversed, conquered and settled all landfall separated by thousands of miles of the greatest ocean on earth. There is no way that the average man can possibly understand the complexity, or the almost impossible degree of difficulty faced by these courageous mariners, who with stone age tools, designed and constructed the most seaworthy ocean-going vessel of all time -- the voyaging canoe.

"We are indeed fortunate this morning, Mr. Speaker, to have with us one of the last living master navigators, who brings to Hawaii, to our people, a body of knowledge heretofore thought to be unretrievable.

"Mau Pailug comes to us from the tiny Micronesian atoll called Satawal where he is one of a handful of men chosen to shoulder both the blessings and curses of being a living anthropological study as he struggles with his own people to keep an unbroken, thousands-of-year old tradition, alive.

"Mau Pailug, in 1976, standing on the cold, open deck of the Hokule'a for thirty-two days and sailing in a vast area of the Pacific Ocean he had never seen, successfully navigated the Hokule'a to a pinpoint landing at Papeete, Tahiti.

"Heretofore sceptical United States naval officials and other high-ranking modern-day mariners were left absolutely astounded and in awe of this man, who without benefit of charts, compass and sextant, in one dramatic voyage, wiped away years of academic controversy that the islands of the Pacific were discovered accidentally. Mau Pailug carries his charts, compass and sextant in his head along with computer-like memory banks of hundreds of star paths and celestial movements -- a body of knowledge passed on to him by his ancestors in the form of a highly disciplined oral tradition.

"With Mau Pailug this morning is a young Hawaiian, my good friend, Nainoa Thompson.

"Nainoa was still serving his apprenticeship under the tutelage of Mr. Pailug has already distinguished himself as a non-instrument navigator on the Hokule'a's second trip to Tahiti in 1980.

"As mentioned in the resolution, Nainoa's making history by being the first native Hawaiian in over 500 years, to seize the opportunity to retrieve and recapture voyaging skills that we thought to have been lost forever. I cannot emphasize the importance of Mr. Thompson's work to Hawaiian history and culture, not only in an academic sense, but in human terms.

"Nainoa has pushed himself to the leading edge of rebuilding of the Hawaiian culture through his applied research in Polynesian non-instrument navigation, thereby closing a centuries-old gap in Hawaiian history and retrieving a part of our history that will cause our children to stand a little taller and be proud of a most distinguished heritage.

"The work of both these men requires the highest degree of intellect and raw courage, for as we have found, tragedy can lurk around any corner in the business of spanning thousands of miles of ocean without the benefit of modern navigational equipment, is no child's play.

"And so, Mr. Speaker, it is a great pleasure for me this morning to introduce these two men among men, who will live by the stars, wind, wave and bird for the next two years as the Hokule'a embarks on its third and most ambitious voyage of rediscovery, spanning 16,000 miles of the Polynesian triangle.

"First, I'd like to present the master navigator from the Island of Satawal, Mr. Mau Pailug," who was asked to stand and be recognized.

"And next, a man on whose shoulders rest a large chunk of the historical pride and dignity of the Hawaiian people, Mr. Nainoa Thompson.

"I would just like to say to the both of you -- that the members of this House wish to express our greatest admiration and wish you Godspeed on your journey into history."

At this time, orchid leis were presented to Mr. Pailug by Representative Tungpalan and to Mr. Thompson by Representative Kamali'i. Certified copies of the resolution were presented to Mr. Pailug by Representative Jones and to Mr. Thompson by Representative Lindsey.

Representative Apo continued his remarks, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I know it's rather unusual, but it's a Polynesian tradition especially on the island of Satawal, that when you are honored that you have an exchange of gifts, and Mr. Pailug has brought with him, from Satawal, a hundred fathoms of sennit, handwoven--and I don't have to tell you how many hours and hours that takes--and he also wishes to express the fact that he has a lot better things to do rather than running around helping Hawaiians recapture their past--but recognizing the problem in his own island of Satawal of keeping the tradition going, for the last few years, Mau Pailug has been one of the few people who possess this ancient knowledge, who has come forward willingly to share it; and his single purpose for being here is not for publicity or the drama but simply because he feels, deep in his heart, that he would like to help the Hawaiians recapture their past. At this time, I believe, he would like to present to you, on behalf of the people of Satawal, to all the people of Hawaii and the House of Representatives, his gift.

At this time, Mr. Pailug presented his gift to the Chair.

Representative Apo then stated:

"Mr. Speaker, I would like to close on a very brief note. Sometimes I used to wonder what happens to old navigators--I know they don't die; they don't fade away, but if I could call the members of the House--call their attention to the south end of the gallery--old navigators become sea creatures.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Jones then rose and stated:

"Just to add on to Mr. Apo's comments, I believe that these two men, if there are living treasures in Polynesia, these two men should be designated as "living treasures."

"America was molded by men and women like these with courage and a spirit of adventure. We like to praise, and we should praise, the people who go to the moon or on a space shuttle. We should never forget the challenge of crossing thousands of miles of wide open ocean without the benefit of western navigational aids, is a miracle in itself.

"As a sailor myself, Mr. Speaker, we are familiar with the ocean and a twenty foot wave doesn't sound too high, but if you just look about two thirds the way up of where you are, that's what a twenty foot wave looks like when you are in an outrigger canoe.

"It's quite a courageous event. This event is also historic and the record that will be made of this event, I hope will be the basis for educational courses in our schools and also with the Eagle Scouts and other people who can take advantage of this information that we are going to get. This event, Mr. Speaker, deserves worldwide media and academic attention, and I certainly hope we'll help it to achieve that.

"These men represent, for myself and for my children, role models that we will want our young to revere and to imitate.

"May their voyage be safe, successful and blessed. My only regret is that I cannot go with them. God bless you as you go.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Hemmings then rose and stated:

"Mr. Speaker, Mau's ability borders on the spiritual--and I have heard many tales about him and his journeys in the Pacific Basin, and he stands as an inspiration to all of us who know and love Hawaii and what we stand for here.

"But I would like to say a few comments about my paddling friend, Nainoa Thompson, because I know and love the sport of Hawaiian canoe racing; and I would like to say besides the anthropological and scientific value of what these men are doing, it has a tremendous value for our young people here today, in fact for all of us, because on the shores of all the Hawaiian islands there is the oldest sport in Hawaii, canoe racing, still going on.

"And sometimes, quite honestly Mr. Speaker, it grieves me because this great sport of Hawaii which was at the very heart of our culture, before the white man, is sometimes a stepchild in our own state and we have provided through our resources and to the taxpayers' resources, assistance to many great sports in Hawaii, but not much to the sport of Hawaiian canoe racing; and I can tell you that Nainoa Thompson stands as an inspiration to all the people who participate in this modern day sport that dates to ancient Hawaii, and I am inspired by him and his efforts and I wish him all the best in his journeys.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Crozier then rose and stated:

"I have never met these gentlemen until today, sir, but I would like to relive the day the Hokule'a came back to Hawaii in 1976.

"At that time, I was working in construction and I was a road builder and I was a pretty good road builder--we always made our deadlines, we always made our cost.

"But the day the Hokule'a came back, practically the whole city of Honolulu shut down. Everybody went down to the Ala Moana Park to greet the Hokule'a when it came back. Everybody in Hawaii was enthusiastic; they had the spirit of the revival of Hawaii; the revival of the Hawaiian culture and all of this.

"My family, my wife and my kids, went down--they wanted me to go with them and I told them, 'no, you guys go ahead and go, daddy has to go to work, we've got to finish the road--the endless road, we got to finish the endless road.' Well, anyway, they went on down to greet the Hokule'a and while I was on my job site, I went to check with one of the bulldozer operators and when I got there, the guy told me that he had to go home because his wife was giving birth; I guess that's the kind of boss I was, I wasn't too nice to the guy; so he told me the story that he had to go home because his wife was giving birth. So I said 'if your wife is giving birth, go, go.' So he goes home.

"That night we were having a party at my house with all my friends, friends from all of Polynesia, guys from Samoa, from Hawaii and all over--big party going on--and with the T.V. on, it is showing the Hokule'a coming back in and my young little boy is telling me, 'daddy, daddy, look for me. I am by the coconut tree.' Now there is a million people down at Ala Moana Park, now I cannot find my son but I'm playing along with him saying, 'yeah boy, yeah, yeah,' my daughter saying the same thing; all my friends we're drinking beer, cheering for the Hokule'a, and I'm in the spirit and then they panned the camera, focusing in on one young gentleman swimming to the Hokule'a and lo and behold, that was my bulldozer operator.

"His wife did not give birth that day. He went down to the Hokule'a. Of course, I was very upset and asked myself, 'how come this guy did this to me? You know, I'm his boss, his friend, why did he do that to me?' But at that moment, Mr. Speaker, I started to doubt my values. I started to think, 'hey, who's right in all of this? Everybody else is going in right field and I'm walking to left field.' And from then, after that it developed that by 1978, I ran for the Constitutional Convention and a lot of my values was changed and I can say it is because of the Hokule'a that I am here today.

"I would like to thank you folks, for doing what you have done. Your action has caused a reaction and my story is a very small story, there must be millions of other stories out there.

"Thank you very much."

Representative Apo then rose and stated:

"Mr. Speaker, not to delay with the ceremony, but may I be permitted to make a relevant introduction for people in the gallery?"

The Chair directed Representative Apo to proceed.

Representative Apo then stated:

"Mr. Speaker, accompanying Mau Pailug this morning are his sons, Cesario and Peter and his son-in-law, Thomas. Also present in the gallery, are Nainoa Thompson's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Thompson and Nainoa's grandmother, Mrs. Clarinda Lucas along with other members of the Polynesian Voyaging Society." They all were asked to stand and be recognized.

The Chair then stated:

"On behalf of all the members of the House, Mr. Pailug, I would like to thank you for your hookupu, appreciate that very much. Also, on behalf of all of the members of the House, the Chair would like to thank all of our honorees for joining us this morning."

At 12:25 o'clock p.m., the Chair declared a recess, subject to the call of the Chair "for the purpose of personally meeting and extending our personal aloha to each and every one of our honorees, this morning."

The House of Representatives reconvened at 12:42 o'clock p.m.

At this time Representative Ikeda, on a late introduction, introduced Mrs. Helene Hale, a former councilwoman from the Big Island and her sister, Barbara Bates who is visiting from Philadelphia.

Representative Anderson rose and stated:

"Before we get down to business, I would like to honor one of the finest introductions that I have ever heard from Representative Apo. I think it was one with humor and one with culture and history in it. At this time I would really like to congratulate him; it was a fine, fine, fine introduction.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

SUSPENSION OF RULES

On motion by Representative Okamura, seconded by Representative Ikeda and carried, the rules were suspended for the purpose of considering bills on Third Reading on a basis of a modified consent calendar.

Dear ^{Dick} Senator Wong:

Since I am not familiar with the issues involving the Duty Free Shoppers, I am unable to comment on the legislative matter before your committees.

I would like to comment on the fact that the Polynesian Voyaging Society appreciates the $12,500 donation and an additional $12,500 pledge by the Duty Free Shoppers to the Voyage of Rediscovery. It is my understanding that Duty Free Shoppers has and continues to make donations to other worthwhile community wide programs and projects.

Mahalo for your consideration.

Aloha,

The Board of Directors of the Polynesian Voyaging Society and the crew members of Hokule'a would like to thank you, and the other members of the State of Hawaii Legislature, for your help in providing major funding for Hokule'a's VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY.

As you know, Hokule'a accomplished a very successful trip south from Miloiii to Tahiti this summer. Hokule'a then sailed to Moorea, Raiatea and made first-time-ever visits to Huahine, Bora Bora and Manuae in the Society Islands, then traveled southwest to Rarotonga in the Cook Islands. The Hokule'a arrived at Waitangi, Bay of Islands, New Zealand ending the most dangerous leg of their Pacific VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY, 16 days after leaving Rarotonga.

This VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY could not have been realized without the generous support of the Legislature. We thank you for your kokua, and have enclosed a Hokule'a pin as a small token of our appreciation for all your efforts.

Mahalo a nui loa.

Dear Directors and Crew Members:

Congratulations on the success of Hokule'a's trip this summer. It was very exciting to hear of its progress throughout the South Pacific area visiting and sharing with new lands and cultures.

We at the legislature feel very fortunate at having had the opportunity to help sponsor your program. It gives us great pleasure to know that we are behind the promotion of friendly and valuable ties throughout the Pacific area, especially when such efforts provide us with further insight into our own past.

Additionally, I would like to thank you personally for the Hokule'a pin received by my office on February 5, 1986.

Sincerely yours,

Aloha,

The Board of Directors of the Polynesian Voyaging Society and the crew members of Hokule'a would like to thank you, and the other members of the State of Hawaii Legislature, for your help in providing major funding for Hokule'a's VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY.

As you know, Hokule'a accomplished a very successful trip south from Milolii to Tahiti this summer. Hokule'a then sailed to Moorea, Raiatea and made first-time-ever visits to Huahine, Bora Bora and Manuae in the Society Islands, then traveled southwest to Rarotonga in the Cook Islands. The Hokule'a arrived at Waitangi, Bay of Islands, New Zealand ending the most dangerous leg of their Pacific VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY, 16 days after leaving Rarotonga.

This VOYAGE OF REDISCOVERY could not have been realized without the generous support of the Legislature. We thank you for your kokua, and have enclosed a Hokule'a pin as a small token of our appreciation for all your efforts.

Mahalo a nui loa.

POLYNESIAN VOYAGING SOCIETY

BOX 19000-A / HONOLULU / HAWAII 96819 / (808) 841-3966

February 28, 1984

To: The Honorable Malama Solomon, Chairperson, and Members of the Senate Committee on Education.

Aloha and good afternoon, members of the Senate's Committee on Education and staff.

My name is Jerry Kaumualii Muller. I am an attorney, having graduated from the University of Hawaii School of Law in 1981. I have been associated with the Polynesian Voyaging Society since 1976, and have sat on the PVS Board of Directors since January, 1980.

I and my fellow members are here today in support of Senate Bill 1851-84, which would provide a grant-in-aid to Polynesian Voyaging Society to help us prepare for, and to launch, the Hokule'a canoe's next voyage, scheduled to leave Hawaii in March 1985, and to return to Hawaii in approximately June, 1987. This 2½ year schedule includes stops at ports throughout the South and Western Pacific Ocean. This voyage will be on a grand scale never before attempted by PVS.

At this time I would like to turn our presentation over to my fellow members who will detail what PVS has learned from our past voyages, and what we hope to accomplish with this next voyage.

Attached are statements by:

Mr. Will Kyselka
Dr. Dixon Stroup
Mr. Gordon Piianaia

STATEMENT BY MR. WILL KYSELKA

PVS Mission

S.B. No. 1851-84

February 28, 1984

[I'm Will Kyselka, a lecturer at the Bishop Museum Planetarium. For three years Nainoa Thompson and I worked in the Planetarium correlating stars in the sky with islands in the sea. Trusting mind and senses, he used that knowledge in guiding Hokule'a to Tahiti and back—a story told daily in the Planetarium and heard by 122,000 persons in the last four years.]

PVS Mission Statement

The mission of the Polynesian Voyaging Society (PVS) is that of increasing our knowledge of ancient Polynesia by keeping Hokule'a sailing.

Hokule'a is our way of discovering the roots and value systems of the Polynesians of old, a way of getting in touch with the creativeness and ingenuity of a people who sailed over vast Pacific distances to tiny island destinations.

Hokule'a provides ocean-oriented experiences that increase our understanding of the complexity of the problems that Polynesians faced in their peopling the Pacific.

Within the first eight years of its existence, Hokule'a completed two round trip voyages to Tahiti, attempted another, investigated Kealaikahiki as a possible "Path to Tahiti," and traveled extensively throughout the islands of Hawaii on educational ventures.

The voyages have shown the double-hulled canoe capable of holding "close to the wind" and achieving successful two-way voyaging between Hawaii and Tahiti. Also that the principles of the wayfinding art, as practiced by the Satawalese navigator Mau Piailug, are generalizable to that long north-south route. The 1980 voyage showed that it is possible to generate navigational knowledge and develop a wayfinding system that resulted in two successful landfalls over ten thousand kilometers of open ocean voyaging, Nainoa Thompson navigating.

The 1985-87 Voyage of Hokule'a

The objectives of the proposed third voyage of Hokule'a into the South Pacific are several:

- Expanding our knowledge of the practice of seafaring arts on a traditional type of vessel.
- Furthering our knowledge of the problems that the navigator faces and, by extension, how the ancients might have solved such problems.

- Locating tiny island targets over long oceanic distances in all possible sailing directions and winds, and under a variety of climatic conditions.
- Increasing an understanding and unity among Pacific island peoples in their common seafaring heritage.
- Providing sailing opportunities so that others may experience, as Nainoa has expressed it, "that privileged moment of looking through a window into my heritage."

PVS is looking at the Polynesian phenomenon from three vantage points—culture, science, and the humanities.

Culture	The canoe as the culmination in art form and engineering design, and long-distance voyaging as the ultimate intellectual expression of the peoples of Oceania. In the fusion of mind and canoe was their means for attaining the hopes and dreams of old as spoken in chant, song, dance, and story. What is still extant among the inheritors of ocean culture?
Science	Science is both product and process that allows us to examine the elements in the wayfinding system that Nainoa invented and to gain an insight into the cognitive structures and heuristic processes embedded within human navigation.
Humanities	How does the ocean shape the mind and is in turn shaped by it? What mode of thinking emerges from an oceanic people and how does that affect language? The disciplines of philosophy, religion, and history provide perspective from which will emerge a historical understanding of the peoples of Oceania—a personal insight expressed in ordinary language, informed by scientific knowledge, and transformed by esthetic imagination.

The voyages of Hokule'a show what the Polynesian Voyaging Society has done; therefore what it is. Our understanding of the wayfinding art will increase as the canoe continues sailing in search of the past.

STATEMENT BY DR. DIXON STROUP.

My name is Edward Dixon Stroup, and I wish to testify in support of S. B. No. 1851-84: Making an Appropriation for a Grant-in-Aid to the Polynesian Voyaging Society.

I am professionally a physical oceanographer, and am Chairman of the Department of Oceanography at the University of Hawaii. (This testimony is being given as a private citizen, and has no connection with any U.H. policy or program.) I am a member of the Board of Directors of the Polynesian Voyaging Society, and am Chairman of the Research Committee of that Society.

Much of the research planned for the Hokule'a's 1985-87 voyage is an outgrowth of the research done on the 1980 Tahiti voyage. During that trip the non-instrumental navigator's position estimates and comments were tape-recorded several times daily, while the canoe's true position was fixed from radio signals picked up by satellites. These signals were sent by a sealed, battery-powered transmitting beacon which ran unattended throughout the trip.

Two publications are being developed from the information gathered. The first will be a detailed narrative record of the non-instrumental navigator's position estimates, together with charts showing the true positions and with observed data on winds and currents. The second will be the navigator's analysis of these results.

The documentation planned for 1985-87 will be a refinement and extension of the 1980 work. In 1980, neither the navigator nor the documenters had tried such a thing before; we did not know all the right questions to ask, or anticipate all of the important subjects to cover. The effort can now be made much more effective, the return of information much higher, and the post-voyage analysis much more efficient.

In addition, several of the legs of the planned voyage are largely east-west in direction, rather than north-south, and the wind will be astern rather than ahead. This will introduce new navigational problems and strategies to document and describe.

The goal of the research/documentation program is to publish detailed, technically accurate descriptions of the process of non-instrumental navigation as developed and successfully applied by Mr. Nainoa Thompson. His efforts, to the best of my knowledge, are unique in the modern history of navigation. The published descriptions will thus be uniquely valuable for scholars attempting to understand the possible limitations and likely potentialities of the lost art of Polynesian non-instrumental navigation. The descriptions will also be a uniquely important source of material for developing and fostering an appreciation of the high level of intellectual accomplishment represented by the Polynesian oceanic voyaging traditions within Hawaii's cultural heritage.

EDUCATION CONCERNS - POLYNESIAN VOYAGING SOCIETY

The Polynesian Voyaging Society is a unique group dedicated to education and research into the seafaring traditions of the Polynesians who sailed on their voyaging canoes and inhabited the hundreds of islands in the Pacific.

The birth of Hōkūle'a has given many Hawaiians great hope, pride, love and appreciation for their heritage. To others, it has stimulated new interest and admiration for the Polynesian culture.

The Education Committee of the Polynesian Voyaging Society has committed itself to developing and educating others, especially our children in Hawai'i's schools, about the incredible courage, skills and achievements of the Polynesian voyagers. Through the development of educational materials, classroom speakers, canoe visitations, and other efforts, the Education Committee has attempted to harness the interest and excitement generated by the Hōkūle'a to bring forth a deeper understanding of our Hawaiian heritage.

EFFORTS OF THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE

CLASSROOM PRESENTATIONS:

The PVS created a "speaker's bureau" in 1977 to reach a large number of students in Hawai'i's schools statewide. Over the years, members of the PVS (especially crew) have spent countless hours making classroom presentations.

COMMUNITY PRESENTATIONS:

Many requests for neighbor island presentations have been serviced by the PVS. In addition to crew members providing presentations, the PVS has also tried to make the canoe available for visitations at the same time.

CANOE VISITATIONS:

Hōkūle'a has been used as a teaching aid or "floating classroom" since the first voyage in 1976. Canoe visits to the neighbor islands is supplemented by classroom visits or community presentations. During the 1977-1978 school year, Hōkūle'a visited every island and provided canoe visitations and lectures to nearly every school throughout the State.

During interisland sails, new crew members were introduced to the Hōkūle'a. In addition, select high school groups have been taken out on short sails aboard the canoe. This learning experience has had a positive impact on the youngsters.

ARTMOBILE:

The FVS helped to develop a special exhibition on voyaging for the Artmobile - Department of Education. Presentations were provided to O'ahu and other neighboring island schools during the 1977-1978 school year.

Under the direction of Rowena Keaka, the Artmobile reflected the theme of Hōkūle'a and Polynesian Voyaging. At the Kamehameha Day celebration in 1977, the Artmobile was the center of attraction for hundreds of youngsters and adults at Kapi'olani Park.

FILM:

Under an arrangement with the National Geographic Society, 5 prints of "The Voyage of the Hokulea" were given to the FVS. The FVS in turn has made these films available on a loan basis to schools and other groups on all islands.

Tip Davis also provided the FVS with 5 prints of his film on the launching of Hōkūle'a. These films are also available on a loan basis.

George Tahara (of CinêPic) provided the FVS with a copy of his film "The Coming of the Polynesians." This film has been used in presentations and is also available on a loan basis.

Chuck Larson just recently completed a film "Hōkūle'a: Ka Wa'a Kaulua" that will be distributed throughout the Pacific. This film was produced from unused footage available from the National Geographic Society and is FVS's own story about the trip to Tahiti in 1976.

SLIDE PRESENTATIONS:

The FVS has put together slide presentations to be used in giving lectures. Efforts to provide tapes to accompany the slides have not been too successful as it is requested that speakers be present to provide the dialogue.

TAPED GLOSSARIES:

Taped glossaries were made for teacher and classroom use to enrich the usage of Hawaiian words contained in the glossaries of the children's books on voyaging produced by the FVS.

PUBLICATIONS:

"Children's Book Project" - see attachment. The books are also accompanied by a "Teacher's Guide."

"Polynesian Seafaring Heritage" - published in 1980, this book is presently out of print. Put together for Hawai'i's teachers and their students, there is a demand for revision and a second printing of this publication as it is a tremendous resource for those involved in the 5th grade curriculum of Hawai'i's schools.

RESEARCH:

The educational efforts have included the testing of the Kealaikahiki Point and Channel as traditional departure areas for trips to Tahiti. Oral traditions mention these areas for trips south and PVS has tried to validate these ancient routes.

CULTURAL IMPACT:

The cultural impact outside of Hawai'i has been great, especially in Tahiti, the Cook Islands, and Fiji. However, the PVS has also been aware of the educational value of the canoe. Lectures have been given in these island groups and the response has been tremendous. During the last voyage, the PVS worked with the education system in Tahiti. Hōkūle'a was sailed to different districts in Tahiti and Mo'orea and school presentations were conducted by crew to Tahitian youngsters and community groups during the canoe visits.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE

Children's Book Project

The subject of a series of four children's books was conceived by Dr. Kenneth Emory. He suggested that the stories be based on the oral traditions of High Chief Mo'ikeha, and his family who migrated from Tahiti to Hawai'i. Chants, geneology and legend tell about this seafaring family that made 5 or 6 voyages between Hawai'i and Tahiti.

The entire project was created, directed and edited by Nancy Mower. Three authors and 4 artists were responsible for the development of the books. The authors were Nancy Mower, Stanley Kapepa and Maralyn Blackman. The illustrators were Allen Akins, Sharon Kumm, Joseph Namakaeha Momoa, and John Lennon.

A Resource Curriculum Guide on Polynesian Voyaging was written by Cecilia Kapua Lindo to accompany the four books.

The books and teacher's guide were completed at the end of October 1976 and were written for children in the upper elementary and intermediate levels. These publications are currently being used in over 160 schools in the State of Hawai'i and in schools in Indiana, California, Delaware, Washington, Vancouver, B. C. Over 3,000 of the originally printed 5,000 books were sold. One thousand Resource Curriculum Guides were originally printed and 1,000 more had to be re-printed because of requests for them.

The State Library RUSH list approved all books and gave the Resource Curriculum Guide a "highly recommended" status. In addition, letters have expressed favorable reaction to the books and guide. Likewise, numerous phone calls from individual teachers and others have commented on the value of the books and guide.

A summary of each book is expressed below:

BOOK 1: THE VISION OF MO'IKEHA by Nancy Mower Illustrated by: Sharon Kumm

Mo'ikeha, High Chief of Kaua'i, has a vision of a double-hulled canoe and its crew which will sail to Tahiti to find his long lost son. Mo'ikeha holds a ti-leaf canoe contest in which his five sons compete to see who has the greatest skills in canoe building and sailing.

BOOK 2: A CANOE FOR UNCLE KILA by Stanley Kapepa Illustrated by John Lennon

Kila, youngest son of Mo'keha, has won the contest and will be captain of the canoe. Kaha'i grandson of Mo'ikeha goes to live with the master canoe builder and participates in each step of building a double-hulled canoe.

BOOK 3: THE VOYAGE TO TAHITI by Nancy Mower Illustrated by Allen Akina

Kaha'i is a crew member on a memorable voyage, which is not only an exciting adventure, but a tremendous learning experience.

BOOK 4: HOKULE'A by Maralyn Blackman Illustrated by Joseph Momoa

This book brings us back to the present day, Lehua and Kupono participate in the activities of the POLYNESIAN VOYAGING SOCIETY, as the Society builds HOKULE'A and prepares for the 1976 voyage to Tahiti.

SPEAKER'S BUREAU REPORT

During the past school year the Polynesian Voyaging Society was able to service a large number of students in Hawai'i's schools via the Speaker's Bureau. Members of the crew spent countless hours making presentations. These presentations have utilized films, slides, models and other audio and visual materials. In addition, an overview of Polynesian Voyaging and the Hōkūle'a was presented to many community groups and organizations.

The scheduling of schools and community groups has been an ongoing process which has resulted in an avalanche of requests for presentations. The large number of requests exceeded our capacity to make classroom presentations when requested. However, the number of requests do indicate that Hōkūle'a has had a lasting effect on the people of Hawai'i. The Speaker's Bureau has had a successful year and the requests for presentations for the present school year are coming in but cannot be met with the present manpower situation.

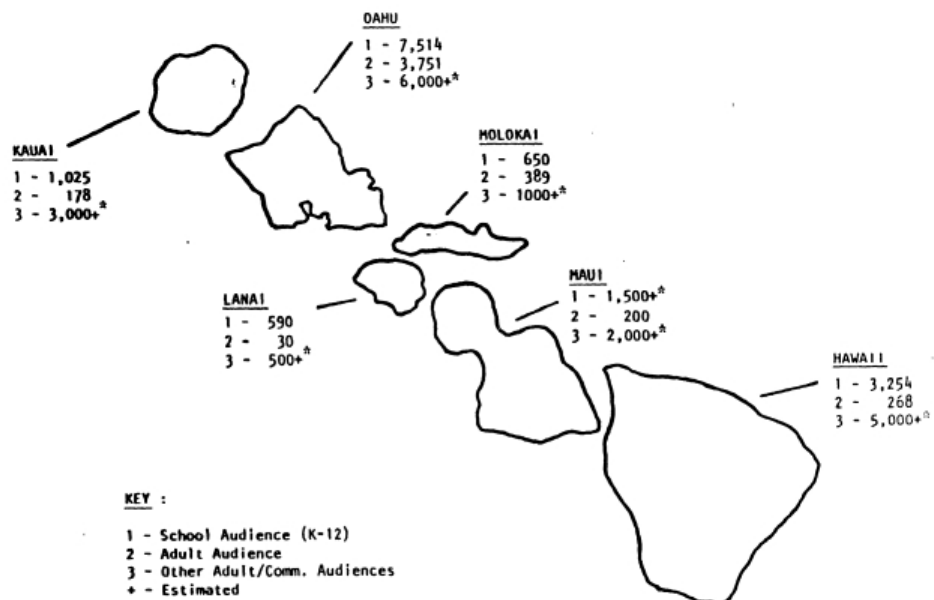

Enclosure 1 shows the totals for target audiences that the Speaker's Bureau was able to service last school year. The total figure shown only represents about 80% of all figures recorded and do not reflect any onboard visitations to the Hōkūle'a. Also represented are target audiences serviced on the Neighboring Islands.

Target Audience Figures*

Total Elementary Audience	= 6,369
Total High School (+ Intern) Audience	= 6,094
Total College/University Audience	= 370
Total Community/Organization Audience	= 3,908
 Total School (K-12) Audience	 = 12,463
Total Adult Audience	= 4,746
Total Audience (all ages)	= 17,209

*During the summer Hōkūle'a visited the neighboring islands of Hawai'i, Maui, Lāna'i, Kaua'i and Moloka'i. Crew members estimate servicing an estimated minimum of 15,000 youngsters and adults during this period.
