The "Makali'i" Project is a unified effort of five non-profit educational and cultural organizations of the Island of Hawaii to build a double-hulled fiber-glassed ocean voyaging canoe, of Hawaiian design and proportion, to be used as an educational and spiritual vessel in the preservation and perpetuation of Hawaiian and Polynesian cultural and seafaring traditions.

This project was inspired by The "Mauloa" Traditional Canoe Project, which was completed in June of 1993, with the launching of this single hull sailing canoe at Pu'uuhonua O Honaunau.

Na Kalaiwa'a Moku O Hawaii, The Canoe Builders of the Island of Hawaii, is a non-profit educational and cultural organization dedicated to the preservation and perpetuation of Hawaiian and Polynesian cultural and seafaring traditions. Working in cooperation with the Polynesian Voyaging Society and the Hawaii Maritime Museum, as well as the U.S. Dept. of Interior, National Park Service, this organization was able to complete the "Mauloa" Traditional Canoe Project in 1993 and continues its responsibility for the caretaking and maintenance of this canoe, at its now permanent home at Pu'uuhonua O Honaunau, on the island of Hawaii. The "Mauloa" has just returned from her first "land voyage" around the island of Hawaii in participation with the Dept. of Education Hawaiian Studies Kupuna Program. On her journey, the "Mauloa" was presented to thousands of children and their home communities and schools around the island. With the addition of the "Makali'i" voyaging canoe, the organization hopes to expand its educational and cultural programs not only for the children and people of Hawaii, but also for the education and enrichment of All of the Pacific family.

Both the "Mauloa" Traditional Canoe Project and the "Makali'i" Voyaging Canoe Project have been under the direction of Captain Clay Bertelman, President of Na Kalaiwa'a Moku O Hawaii, and Shorty Bertelman, Navigator of the "Hokule'a" and Executive Director of Na Kalaiwa'a Moku O Hawaii. Their experience, discipline and dedication to the completion of these projects have inspired the participation and commitment of several contributing cultural and educational support organizations.

The success of the unified efforts of Na Kalaiwa'a and these support organizations as they work in cooperation with each other, and care for each other, epitomizes their vision and mission to... "Ho'olokahi" "to bring about unity, harmony and Aloha."

These five key organizations provide support and leadership in their areas of responsibility and expertise, and provide a well rounded and more complete learning experience for all participants of the project. Together, all of these organizations who have come together to support both the "Maui" and "Makali'i" projects, have bonded into a "Family of the Canoe", who have committed themselves to working together, for the benefit of all.

The sixth key component of our support group, and the most important and at times least recognized, are Our Families. Without the spiritual and physical support of our families, and the many sacrifices of family time and finances, this project would not have been possible, or even attempted.

List of Primary Donors

We would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the contributions of the following organizations and individuals for their generous donations of time, construction space, building materials, and primary funding. Without these contributions, the "Makali'i" project would not have been started or considered possible.

Project Funding Status

The building of the "Makali'i" is well on its way, having started in Sept. of 1993. Na Kalaiwa'a has successfully raised $ 62,000.00 of the required $ 250,000.00 to complete this project including in kind donations of labor and materials. These "in kind" donations have greatly helped to reduce the actual monetary requirements of this huge undertaking.

Major funding is required to complete the construction of "Makali'i", to pay for surveyors, insurance, escort boats, airfare, food and gear for the 24 crew members and 36 support group members who will participate in the voyage to the Marquesas this spring with the "Hokule'a" and "Hawaii Loa". Several Grant Proposals are in process at this writing. We have been encouraged by several new proposals for fund raising, and continue to push forward with our efforts to complete construction by Jan. 7, 1995.

We encourage, and ask for, your support of this cultural and educational project to benefit all of the children, schools and communities of the Island of Hawaii.

The "Makali'i" will be the first ocean sailing canoe...owned by the Hawaiian people. It is being built and paid for by the people of the Island of Hawaii. Please join us in our efforts to help preserve these traditions of our ancestors, for our future generations.
